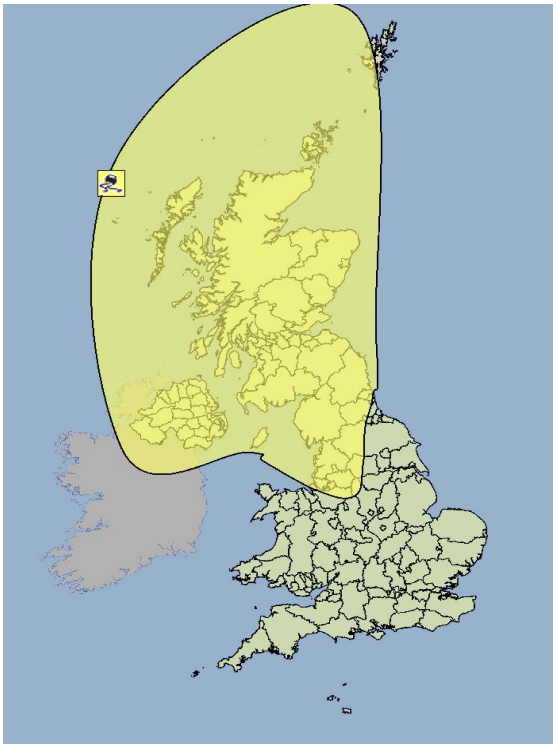
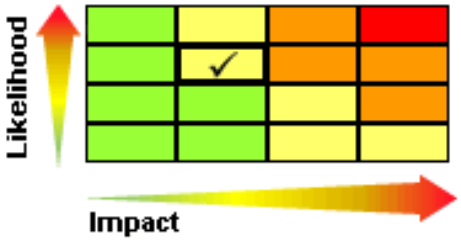
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
As the more persistent rain, sleet and snow clears on Thursday afternoon and evening, temperatures will fall quickly and untreated surfaces will freeze, with ice forming, especially in areas with snow cover. Further showers spreading from the west could cause salt wash-off and give further accumulations of snow in places, chiefly on high ground over Scotland.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 18:00 on Thu, 23rd Feb 2017 until 09:00 on Fri, 24th Feb 2017

Icy stretches will form on many untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths this evening, overnight and into Friday morning. In addition wintry showers could give 1-3 cm of snow in places, mainly on higher ground above 150 m, but perhaps to lower levels in the far north of Scotland.
